WHITESBURG, Ky. (AP)—Gov. A. B. Chandler today mobilized 1,000 National Guardsmen for possible duty in eastern Kentucky's struck coal fields, after another man was killed.

Chandler ordered Maj. Gen. J. B. Williams to survey areas hit by the United Mine Workers union strike then decide if guardsmen are needed to maintain order. The mobilization was touched off by a battle Thursday night that killed James O. Adams, 41, an drowned another man. Three UMW members were arrested later on murder charges.

Before Chandler's announcement, Carson Hobbitts, president of UMW Dist. 30, notified him the union was discarding the peace pact signed by both sides last week.

"I am convinced the operators did not act in good faith," Hobbitts told the governor.

The pact stipulated that neither side was to bear arms and that picketing was to be limited and peaceful.

Those charged with murder in Adams' death were listed as: Harrison Sudham, who in the stone city, Verlin King and Dorothea Holliman, all of nearby Marlowe.

DeGaulle Has Failed With Algeria So Far

Foreign News Commentary
By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Editor

It was just short of a year ago that dissident French forces in Algeria rebelled against a weak and vacillating government in Paris and started the revolt that brought Gen. Charles de Gaulle to power.

Their aim: Total integration of Algeria with France and an end by whatever means to the war by which Algerian Moslems sought to sever their connections with France and set up a free and independent Algeria.

On June 1, De Gaulle took office as premier with three special powers they were:

To govern France by decree for six months

To revise the constitution

To deal with the situation in Algeria

Whatever else his successors may have been, his record in Algeria to date has been nothing but failure.

He has not been able to halt the Algerian war which costs France nearly three million dollars per day, nor has he been able to satisfy the extreme right French in Algeria who started the revolt a year ago.

The situation in Algeria remains distressingly similar to that which existed before the final French defeat in Indochina some five years ago.

French occupation of Algeria began more than 100 years ago. Since World War II the French have given up service to increased Algerian independence but have shown few real evidences of doing anything about it.

Their complaint now against de Gaulle is the same as it was against the Fourth Republic—that his policy is "soft" and "equivocal" towards the Nationalists and appears to be drifting toward some sort of political settlement with them.

Terrorism is unending in Algeria under the present circumstances, but now three new latest for possible demonstrations and even more than the usual amount of bloodshed have been predicted.

They are April 10 to 26, when Algerian municipal elections will be held, the April 28 opening of parliament in Paris at which 60 Algerian deputies intend to go all out for integration, and May 13, the anniversary of last year's revolution.

TWO OPERATORS at the local Southwestern Bell Telephone office were awarded 30 year service pins at a banquet Wednesday night.

Mrs. Mary Louise Warren completed 30 years of service and so has Mrs. Lena Maryman who recently was named Chief Operator replacing Mrs. Mildred Rogers who retired.

Mrs. Alice Kate Baker was appointed Night Chief Operator taking Mrs. Maryman's place. She has 23 years of service. Mrs. Lalla Pickard retired with 17 years of service.

The Defense Department's Advanced Research Projects Agency disclosed its space timetable today at the world congress of flight.

Rear Adm. John B. Clark, ARPA deputy director, said in a prepared talk that the combining of current rocket boosters into clusters will be advanced to the point of flight testing by autumn of 1960. This program will provide a gain of two years over other approaches to obtain the tremendous thrust and at about half the cost, Clark said.

Johnson said that according to a handwriting expert, endorsements on warrants paid to two school employees "showed a variety of handwriting styles."

On several other warrants, Johnson said, the second endorser was L. R. Gaines, who was discharged as superintendent of the Wrightsville school after the fire.

State Police investigated the fire and later the school's board discharged the superintendent, his wife and two employees. The board said there was negligence in the supervision of boys at the school.

Doors to the dormitory that burned were locked and no adult was on duty in it, the board said.

Gaines explained the second endorsements by saying he often had cashed checks for school employees, Johnson said.

The auditor said B. T. Pumphrey, one of the employees discharged, had been paid as a radio and television repairman "but we were unable to establish when he was ever at the school."

An examination of endorsements on warrants issued to Pumphrey and Willie Cannon, a tractor operator for the school, "reflected a variety of handwriting styles," Johnson said. Cannon was not dismissed by the board.

Senator Asks a Completely New Farm Program

By OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Homer E. Capehart, R-Ind., proposed today a new farm program he said would both raise farm prices and cut costs to taxpayers.

Its principal features would:

1. Pay farmers a billion dollars a year to take out of production land, until new products, costly farm surpluses. This idea, which Capehart called "acreage storage," is similar to the expired acreage reserve part of the soil bank program.

2. Raise the minimum price at which the government would be allowed to sell on the domestic market any of the nine billion dollars worth of surplus farm goods they now hold.

3. Authorize a speeded-up research program to find new industrial uses for farm products.

Capehart offered his program—and invited changes—in the midst of a stalemate between the Eisenhower administration and the Democratic-controlled Congress.

Each has called on the other to come up with a specific program.

Capehart said his proposal would raise crop prices through the combination of cutting production and selling off present government surpluses from domestic markets.

The present surpluses tend to press down on prices of each new crop because the government is permitted to sell them at prices slightly above support levels—in most cases about 80 per cent of parity.

Capehart would raise this minimum to 100 per cent of parity plus handling costs. Parity is a standard for measuring farm prices declared by law to be fair to farmers in relation to prices charged them.

Present surpluses still could be sold abroad and used for relief at home and abroad.

Firm Enjoined From Hiring Away Workers

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Central Transformer Corp. of Pine Bluff was enjoined yesterday from trying to hire away employees of the McGraw-Edison Co. of Pittsburg, Pa.

U.S. District Judge J. Smith Henley issued a temporary restraining order after four McGraw-Edison engineers filed affidavits that George A. Smith, a Central official, visited the Pennsylvania plant April 6 for the purpose of hiring skilled transformer design engineers.

Both firms manufacture electrical transformers.

Pending in the district court here is a 4-year-old McGraw-Edison suit alleging that Central infringed on certain McGraw-Edison patents covering the manufacturing process and type of magnetic core used in transformers.

In seeking the restraining order, McGraw-Edison charged Central wanted to hire key employees in order to learn confidential information about transformer construction processes.

Henley said Smith's visit to the Pittsburgh plant "appears to be an extension of the very acts complained of" in the original suit.

The infringement suit is before Robert S. Lindsey, a Little Rock attorney serving as a special master for this case.

Henley asked Lindsey to hold a hearing next Wednesday to determine whether the temporary order, which expires April 26, should be extended until the infringement suit is settled.

As a result, he said, Tennessee canceled its reciprocal agreement with Arkansas.

The board voted to ask for a renewal of the agreement with the neighboring state, State Sen. Prud Stafford of Marked Tree, who attended the meeting as an observer, said a new agreement with Tennessee would give the way for east Arkansas to obtain some doctors from that state who might otherwise settle in different areas.

Education Commissioner Arch Ford, the ex officio secretary of the new board, was asked to notify other states also of the board's desire to draft new reciprocal agreements under the tighter terms for 1958.

For their efforts in helping to sell over 1,800 extra copies of the Star's Golden Week edition, some 24 newboys and supervisors will be given a hamburger supper tonight.

Lives Dangle as Officers Bargain With Rioters

By JACK ZYGMOND

DEER LODGE, Mont. (AP)—The lives of 18 hostages dangled in balance today while Montana prison officials bargained with rioting convicts. They have killed a deputy warden and stabbed a guard.

The rebels released one hostage, Walter Jones, 24, prison psychologist, for an eight-minute talk with newsmen.

He said guards among the hostages "are all set up to be killed, some will be hanged, I am going back in. I don't know for how long. The inmates are tough. Any little thing will set it off."

Jones said the convicts threatened to kill the other hostages if he did not return within eight minutes.

His statement dashed an earlier report from Father Gerald Lyman, prison chaplain, that an agreement had been reached to settle the riot that broke out Thursday at 4:30 p.m. (MST).

Father Lyman told newsmen after a session with the convicts and prison officials that "every thing is going to be all right." He said a formal announcement would be made shortly. But three hours later no agreement had been announced.

Jones, planked with officials in "place" leave this in the warden's hands. If successful, the warden's hands, and some of the guards, would be released.

About 150 combat-ready Montana national guardsmen ring the 90-year-old castle-like prison. They are armed with automatic rifles and bayonets.

A convict spokesman, a burglar named Jerry Myles, talked for more than 15 minutes over the prison public address to the 435 convicts inside. His speech was heard outside the walls.

Myles said he wanted out of state newsmen to come inside and look over prison conditions. "I don't think the warden or the officers will let you in," Myles said, "because they don't want news men to know what conditions are. We guarantee you safe passage."

Myles and other prisoners have been complaining of what they termed poor medical facilities, bad sanitation and the policies of the Montana Parole Board. "We are not fighting for today but for the next guy who comes in here," Myles said.

Father Lyman took part in a 2-hour 45-minute conference—between bars of a prison gate—after the prison officials and convicts took the agreement.

He said three out-of-state newsmen would be present at the announcement of the agreement.

Warden Floyd Powell, 40, held at knife point for nearly three hours, escaped unharmed with the aid of a convicted burglar, wildling a meat cleaver.

Powell, Maj. Gen. S. H. Mitchell, commander of the Montana National Guard, and Father Lyman, were talking through a prison gate with spokesmen for the rioters.

Until the prisoners shouted threats to burn their hostages, authorities had planned to feed 150 officers storming the 90-year-old, turreted, castle-like prison. There are 435 prisoners inside.

A prisoner, identified by others as Jerry Myles, a burglar from Butte, shouted to newsmen that the riot started over poor medical facilities, filthy sanitation, and dissatisfaction with Montana Parole Board policies.

Convicts took control of the prison Thursday afternoon.

"I started about 4:30 p.m.," said the prison business manager, Elmer Erickson.

"Someone—it could have been an inmate or an officer—called on the prison's telephone to the warden's office," Erickson said. "He and I were in there. They said there had been a killing inside. They talked to Powell."

"He and I started across the street. We went into the main entrance, Tower 7. We let ourselves in."

"They grabbed the warden."

Erickson then ran back to the prison office and summoned help.

An unidentified convict shouted to newsmen that the hostages would be burned with gasoline if an attempt was made to storm the prison.

He said the rioters wanted an investigating committee to check what he called mental and physical conditions.

Four Gunmen Capture a Cuban Plane

By ROBERT D. CLARK

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Four gunmen—three of them fugitives from the firing squads of the Cuban revolutionary government—captured a Cuban airplane in flight today and forced the pilot to land at a point 10 miles from Miami.

Seventeen startled but unharmed American and Cuban passengers were aboard the 4-engine airplane when it landed. U.S. border patrolmen immediately surrounded the plane and took the four hijackers into custody.

Three gunmen said they were members of the hated Cuban police force of the fallen Cuban dictator, Fulencio Batista. The other was a former Batista air force mechanic.

Fidel Castro's rebels overthrew Batista last Jan. 1 after a 24-month war and forced him to take refuge in the Dominican Republic.

The border patrol said the gunmen would be held for a special investigation by the U.S. Immigration Service.

Capitán Candelario Delgado, 49, the plane's pilot from Havana, said one of the men placed a pistol against his neck and ordered him to fly to the Dominican Republic. The plane was on route from Havana to the Isle of Pines, 100 miles south of Havana.

"I told them, we do not have enough gas for such a trip," Delgado said. "Then they told me, 'Fly to Miami.'"

Gunmen also were held at the heads of the cockpit, Fausto Valdez, 39, and the steward, Jose Leon, 37, throughout the 225-mile trip to Miami.

The passengers said no one was hurt or roughly treated after the plane took over.

Peter Kissel, 32, a far Hills, N.Y. stock broker, told reporters four men in civilian clothes took up positions in the front and rear of the plane and one pointed a pistol at the head of the pilot.

A Castro soldier on vacation, Arago Consuegro, 18, grappled with the gunmen but was disarmed.

Three of the hijackers were brothers. They identified themselves as Alfredo Masonery Sanchez, 31, former secret police sergeant; Roland, 28, also of the old secret police; and Jesus, 26, a former member of the old secret police.

Their companion was Leonardo Servato, 54, a former secret police corporal.

THE STORY: Jim Furlong has burned a linecamp of the powerful Empire ranch in retaliation for the burning of his cabin by Clee Veto, the Empire foreman. But as Furlong flees pursuers, he finds like Rule badly wounded.

The gun was tilting up, when Furlong kicked out with his right foot, booting the weapon from Rule's fingers.

A sobbing curse came from Rule's distorted mouth. He tried to get up, and fell back, and then went wholly limp.

Time might be running out for Rule. And if Veto's crew was trailing him, it could be running out for both of them. Taking out his knife, Furlong slit open Rule's blood-soaked shirt. There was a three-inch slanting wound where a bullet had sliced the flesh above his right hip. The wound itself was not serious, but the bleeding would be unless it stopped. Furlong used his own pocketkerchief to fashion a thick pad, then maneuvered Rule's holstered belt around, punching a new hole and drawing the belt tight against the bandage.

Rule opened his eyes. He got up on his hands, grunted some unintelligible word and began crawling.

Furlong grasped his arm, said, "Let me help you, Ike."

Rule peered up at him through bloodshot eyes. He asked gutturally, "Is it you, Furlong?"

"Yes, and I'll help you."

Rule seemed to think about this for a moment, then he said, "I need water, bud."

Furlong took the canteen from his saddle and held it for him. Rule rolled onto his side and drank greedily. He choked, then went into a fit of coughing that wrecked him, horribly, but he reared up, took the canteen and gasped, "More."

The committee asked U. S. District Court here to turn over ballots lost from the election to the subcommittee.

The ballots have been impounded on order of District Judge J. Smith Henley for a federal grand jury which is conducting its own probe of the election, seeking alleged violations of federal election laws.

Henley said yesterday he would cooperate with the subcommittee on the matter of the ballots, if it did not interfere with the business of his court.

Florida Wins Approval on Lawyer Fee

By ROBERT D. CLARK

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—George H. Florida of Osceola yesterday won U.S. District Court permission to spend $7,000 of his personal funds to defend himself against an alleged extortion charge.

District Judge J. Smith Henley made the money available by refusing an injunction issued against Florida's properties in a civil suit.

Florida goes on trial Monday on a charge of evading $54,200 in taxes. The money, Florida says, was used to pay for his legal defense, including witnesses and attorneys.

In the civil suit, the government seeks more than $1 million in back taxes, penalties and interest. It claims it is owed by George Florida, his brother, Andrew, and his wife, and various corporations owned by them.

Henley recently enjoined Florida and his firm from transferring any properties pending a decision in the civil case.

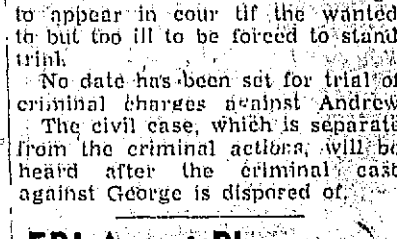

Andrew Florida also is accused on a criminal evasion charge here. Both brothers are charged with evading corporation income taxes in a suit pending in U.S. District Court at Memphis.

U. S. Atty. Millspaugh told at Memphis yesterday asked District Judge Marion S. Boyd to call a hearing immediately to determine whether Andrew J. Florida is physically capable of standing trial.

Fitzhugh contended he was to appear in court if he wanted. Andrew Florida was well enough to appear in court if he wanted to but too ill to be forced to stand trial.

No date has been set for trial of criminal charges against Andrew Florida. The civil case, which is separate from the criminal action, will be heard after the criminal case against George is disposed of.

Beller sit up, first. Furlong suggested, and helped him so. "Beller sit up, first," Furlong suggested, and helped him so. "Beller sit up, first," Furlong suggested, and helped him so.

Furlong peered toward the ridge, half expecting to see rider following a wounded man's blood-marked trail.

The water seemed to revive Rule. Some of the wildness went out of his eyes and his breathing was less labored. "They shot at me in the back," he muttered. "Then my horse went down, and broke my leg."

"Who shot you?"

"Them Empire killers," Rule grunted, adding, "They'll track me down. I got to get out of here."

"Yes," Furlong agreed. "Me too."

Rule glanced at the gray, asked, "Will he tote double?"

Furlong rode south across the meadow, then turned east on a course that would bypass the wicked linecamp. He thought Rule was dozing, but now he asked, "Ain't you headed in the wrong direction? My place is west and north."

"That's where they'll be looking," Furlong explained. "This way, we might outguess them, and get you to Doc Satterly."

That seemed to satisfy Rule. They crossed a series of dry washes, the gray visibly tiring in this heavy going when it became necessary to climb a long ridge east of Sick Squaw Creek. Furlong dismounted, warning Rule to hand on he led the pony. They were near the crest when Rule fell from saddle. He loosed an agonized yelp as his broken leg struck the ground, then went limp again as Furlong knelt to aid him. And at this moment, as Furlong crouched in help, Rule with water from the canteen, a rider clattered down the ridge less than a hundred yards away.

Remaining crouched, Furlong transferred the canteen to his left hand and drew his gun, and identified Sheriff Sid Link by the sun-sparked silver star on his vest.

"I'll come back," he promised, then spurred the gray into a run, quartering down ridge and drawing Link away from where Rule lay.

Link's yell was barely audible above the pony's stampeding flank. His words were indistinct, but Furlong knew that they were the prelude to shooting.

Link's first shot was evidently high, for Furlong didn't hear the bullet's passage; the next one ricocheted off a rock outcrop to his right and slightly ahead of him. Furlong tugged the gray into a sharp turn and crashed through a manzanita thicket.

Furlong slowed his panting mount to a walk and presently halting, listened for sound of pursuit. But the gray's labored breathing was too loud, and it told him there wasn't much room left in him. Furlong turned back to the wash, crossed it and halted again in high brush.

Furlong heard the remote clang of a shot fired against rock somewhere west and south of him. For a moment he guessed that Link had gone on past where he had turned, but now a voice called, "Where are you, Sid?"

Soon after that he thought he detected an indistinct drone of far-off voices and presently the vague rumble of travel to the north of him.

Soon afterwards he heard Sid Link call, "Any fresh tracks up there?" The voice was west of Furlong.

"Not a track," the other man replied. For a moment Furlong couldn't identify the rider, who came slanting across the ridge above him. Then, as the man turned to scan the slope, Furlong recognized Brent Pardee and was wholly baffled.

Why would the son of Jules Pardee be hunting Furlong? (To Be Continued)

Then the unidentified convict said, "I want you to hear one of the men we have in here. Then a voice identified as that of one of the hostages, pleaded with authorities not to rush the prison.

Wall Jones, a prison psychologist whose home is in Butte, also appealed to authorities outside not to do anything hastily, because of the men held by the convicts.

Nearly 150 hastily summoned members of the Montana Guard, police from nearby cities and military guards that had rested fitfully through the night while their officers plotted strategy for the rescue of the hostages.

Deputy Warden Theodore Roth, 36-year-old former Wisconsin prison officer, was shot through the chest and killed, Guard Bill Cox, 41, was stabbed in the arm. He is in good condition.

The convicts armed themselves with weapons stolen from a storehouse.

Powell, 46, said, "A few of the convicts got out on top of the cut walk and took a few rifles. How they did it I don't know. It is not an organized thing. Most of the convicts want no part of it."

The prisoners demand a conference with Gov. J. Hugo Aaronson, but the governor flatly rejected the request and instead called out the state troops. He said he wouldn't talk to the convicts until all hostages were released and the inmates returned to their cells.

Powell was released after Earl Howard Jackson, 41, Sayre, Okla., intervened when other prisoners threatened the warden's life. Jackson grabbed a meat cleaver and was quoted as saying, "I will cut the throat of the first—what touches the warden, I'm taking him out of here."

Jackson accompanied the warden out of the prison and was placed in a compound to protect him from retaliation from other convicts.

It was the second riot in less than two years at the 90-year-old prison located about 25 miles north of the mining city of Butte.

The nearly 400 editors attending the three-day meeting will have an address Friday by Fidel Castro, youthful prime minister of Cuba's revolutionary government.

Wants Policy Plan of Arkansas Park

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Pea Ridge National Park Commission wants a definite line on National Parks Service policy before it goes ahead with land acquisition at the Civil War battle site.

Chairman Neill Bohlinger said the commission decided yesterday to ask the Parks Service to send a man to Arkansas to determine what the state must do before Pea Ridge can become a national park.

"The Parks Service gave us a map showing boundaries of land we must get," Bohlinger said yesterday. "But the map was a little wrong. We want someone to show our surveyors exactly what we have to have."

The Legislature appropriated $50,000 for additional land acquisition to meet Parks Service standards at Pea Ridge. One of the requirements for making the battle site a national park was that the state donate all necessary land.

The commission spent $250,000 provided by the 1957 Legislature. Then it was told by the Parks Service that more land would be needed.

Claims Aid to Run for Governor

NORTH LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Mayor William F. Laman said yesterday that "fabulous" support had been offered him if he would run for governor next year.

He declined to say who made the offer or whether he would accept.

"I haven't told them anything yet," said the 48-year-old mayor who is serving his first term. "I've got a program for North Little Rock. I'm trying to get through it, and I've got my hands full doing that."

Laman also is president of the Arkansas Municipal League.

He was due to come up for re-nomination as mayor this summer but his term was extended by a 1958 legislative act which provides four-year terms for city officials here.

Legality of the act is in dispute. Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett has ruled it invalid and it is being challenged by some officials who want a city election this summer. There have been indications a court test of the new law may be sought.

Laman has said previously that if the election is held this summer, he would be a candidate for the mayor's office again.

"If you give us a chance we'll prove we've been mistreated," the convict said.

A newsman shouted back, "Why did you kill the deputy warden?"

The voice from within the bell-black answered, "Because he hit back."

The inmate said the 18 hostages—all of whom he said have families—would be killed if the National Guard and troops rushed the prison as Warden Powell had threatened to do.

Before the convict opened his conversation with the group standing outside the main gate state police and guardsmen had mustered in front of the main entrance and several had climbed to guard towers around the prison walls.

Then the unidentified convict said, "I want you to hear one of the men we have in here. Then a voice identified as that of one of the hostages, pleaded with authorities not to rush the prison.

News Briefs

By ROBERT D. CLARK

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Swedish seismographs have recorded large underground explosions in the Baltic Sea off the coast of the Soviet Union, a Swedish scientist said today.

Dr. Markus Bath of the seismicographic station in Uppsala said explosions were recorded between March 10-20. Apparently they originated off Estonia and Lithuania.

Scientists said apparently conventional explosives were used because even the smallest nuclear explosion would have given a much larger registration on the seismograph.

TEZPUR, India (AP)—The Dalai Lama of Tibet resumed his exile journey into Indian exile today after resting five days at the village of Bomdila in India's rugged northeast frontier sector.

Traveling by automobile for the first time since he fled on March 17 from the Communist Chinese occupying Lhasa, Tibet's fugitive god-king is due to reach Tezpur Saturday. A huge welcoming ceremony is planned.

TOKYO (AP)—Peiping radio today reported without comment the news that U.S. Vice President Nixon will visit Moscow this summer.

Neither Moscow morning papers nor the Soviet news agency Tass had reported the announcement 12 hours after it was made in Washington.

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Communist propagandists are happily exploiting the differences between the British and Americans over the high flying by American airplanes in the Berlin air corridors.

Communist radios and newspapers also are telling the world that most Britons are happy over the resignation of U.S. Secretary of State Dulles.

In both cases the Communists quote liberally from British newspapers, seeking to present a picture of the Western powers selfishly divided before the East-West foreign ministers' conference in Geneva next month.

TOKYO (AP)—Communist China announced today that it has forgiven some of the so-called rightists who criticized the Red regime in 1957.

Wei-han, Communist party supervisor of eight minor parties and various national groups, said the critics had expressed the desire to mend their ways. He did not give their names.

Li spoke at the National Committee of the People's Political Consultative Conference, which is meeting in conjunction with the National People's Congress Parliament.

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—Gov. A. B. Chandler ordered two National Guard battalions to assemble at their home bases early today for possible movement into the strike-troubled eastern Kentucky coal fields.

A spokesman in the adjutant general's office said the 441st Field Artillery and the 241st Tank unit have orders to assemble.

The spokesman said it was not known immediately when the guard would be sent out.

DEER LODGE, Mont. (AP)—Two red-eyed wives of Montana prison guards walked into the prison office at 4 a.m. today, seeking word of their hostage husbands.

They were Mrs. Robert Wyant, 28, the mother of two children, and Mrs. Vernon Kolpin, 41, the mother of three.

Both women, who obviously had been crying, said their husbands had worked together in the smelter at Anaconda, Mont., until they became guards six weeks ago.

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—The Indianapolis Motor Speedway today announced two more entries for the 500-mile race May 30, increasing the field to 51. The deadline was midnight Wednesday.

Three trials starting May 16 will cut the field to 33 for the race.

Wells Pleased at Alford Investigation

By ROBERT D. CLARK

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—John F. Wells said last night a House Committee decision to investigate the Dale Alford-Brooks Hays election bolsters faith in the processes of our government.

Wells, publisher of a political weekly, presented alleged evidence of election irregularities to a House special elections subcommittee last December. Wells listed these charges he thought the committee should investigate:

1. An alleged excess of votes over registered voters in many precincts.

2. Alleged instances in which Alford stickers were handed to voters by election officials.

3. Circulation prior to the election of an unsigned circular showing Hays between two Negroes.

4. Alleged evidence that Gov. Orval E. Faubus and others, with authority of state Democratic officials, promoted Alford's written candidacy despite the governor's signed pledge to support Democratic nominees.

Alford, who announced as a written candidate just eight days before the election last November, defeated Hays (the Democratic nominee) by about 1,000 votes.

The House Administration Committee voted last Wednesday to conduct an investigation.

Idea of Year Off From Work Is Considered

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Would you like a year in which every day seemed like Saturday?
Would you like a 365-day paid vacation from work?

The idea of a year off from your job to rest or study has been seriously advanced by Arthur Carstens, a University of California labor expert.

Carstens believes such year-long holidays, to be financed jointly by employers and the state, would benefit workers. They would, he said, "cut down the toll of pressure that makes thousands of half of the nation's women."

He doesn't take into consideration the other half of the picture: If wives had their husbands' half the men would wind up widowers.

But progress always has its price, and this is a risk most thoughtful men would be willing to take.

As we see it, Carstens' proposal for a sabbatical year is of value only if the year away from office and factory were wisely spent.

Some showoffs, naturally, would try to impress the boss by enrolling for the year at Harvard, which only would mix them up. It takes four years of Harvard to remove the confusion from a man. Even then the diploma carries no guarantee.

What really is needed is a soundly planned program which will enable the individual, at the end of his year of enforced leisure, to return to the job a happier, more rounded man.

We have drawn up such a daily program for ourself — in the unlikely event our boss gives us a year off—and suggest you might find it useful to.

Here is our day:
7:00—Wake up and laugh at silent alarm clock, which has been turned off the night before.

7:00-7:01 — Breakfast while lying in bed.
7:01-9:00 — Go back to sleep.
9:00-9:01 — Debate whether to shave.
Decide not to.

9:00-10 — Read newspaper and breakfast—bacon, toast, bacon, eggs, coffee.

10-11—Give wife orders of the day, and point out her errors of the day before.

11:11-15 — Coffee and bourbon break, spent resting on sofa.

11:15-12:15 — Front porch rocking chair session. Make plans on how to spend tomorrow in constructive way.

12:15-1:30 — Highball with next door neighbor.

12:30-1:31 — Lunch: Beer, beef sandwich, apple pie and cheese.

1:30-1:35 — Read good book to improve mind.

1:35-3 — Nap on sofa.

3-3:15 — Coffee and bourbon break.

3:15-4:45 — Back porch rocking chair session to get benefit of afternoon sun. Review morning's plans for tomorrow, decide tomorrow is a bad day to start any new projects.

The natural waistline, coupled with a soft and feminine look, stamps these designs as spring, 1959. Costume in Mecklenburg (left) combines textured silk jacket and skirt with a flimsy, tucked chiffon blouse. The blouse top (center) is a major spring silhouette. Here, it is done in a brown-and-black silk print with large black taffeta bow at the neckline. Dotted cotton tweed is used (right) for a classic American dress. This one has open neckline and wide-away collar. Skirt softness is achieved through use of unpressed pleats. All designs shown here are by Ben Barrack.

DOROTHY DIX

Moniker, Not Money, Will Bring Answers

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Last month I sent you a problem and, although I've read your column every day since, my letter has never been printed. I did notice that a woman had sent you money and you asked for her name and address so you could return it. Is it necessary now for us to send money for answers? My problem is the same as it was. My son has been living with a divorced woman and they have a son. We feel very sad about it and don't know what to do. You've helped so many others, I was sure I could depend on you.

—SALLY

DEAR SALLY: As you can see, I have space for just a few problems each day and, unfortunately, many letters just can't be printed. However, I have written time and time again that any letter with a full name and address, with a stamped, self-addressed envelope enclosed, receives personal attention and reply. Money is not required; in fact, as you could see from the letter you refer to, any money received by me is returned.

As far as your son is concerned, there's nothing you can do about him. He's a grown man, capable of making his own mistakes. You can pray for him, help in an emergency and be ready to welcome your grandchild if he comes to you. Confide in your clergyman, family and any friends sympathetic enough to understand. You are kind and loving yourself, for your letter bears no trace of malice or resentment, as it easily might have. All you want to do is help, so remember, "They also serve who only stand and wait."

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I have been engaged to a 19-year-old boy for two months. A couple of days ago he insisted that I was a liar and I slapped him. We were on the sidewalk and I know I embarrassed him. Since then he hasn't spoken to me. I called to tell him I was sorry but he hung up. I can't get to him to apologize and I know I was wrong.

—HAYENA

DEAR ROWENA: He really hasn't had time to cool off. Keep trying to reach him by phone, letter or in person. You were very wrong and I'm glad to see you're ready and willing to tender an apology. Hope he accepts it.

But if you follow it rigorously, one this is sure.

At the end of your sabbatical year you'll be eager to return to your job—so you can start planning on your pension, when you'll be able to live this way the rest of your life.

Foundation for Arkansas Is Approved

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP)—The governing body of the Arkansas Medical Society today approved the establishment of a medical education foundation for this state.

Approval came at a closed meeting of the House of Delegates in the final business of the Medical Society's four-day convention here.

The proposal was advanced by Dr. James M. Kolb of Clarksville, who was installed as president of the society last night.

Kolb said he realized there was a national medical education organization but felt a state group would attract more financial support.

Next step will be incorporation of the foundation and election of a board of trustees. Kolb said the foundation would receive donations of money and property and disburse earnings for such gifts to individuals, firms and others working in medical education.

Kolb succeeded Dr. Lewis K. Hundley of Pine Bluff as president.

Dr. J. J. Montfort of Batesville was chosen president-elect of the Medical Society today. He will take office at next year's convention in Pine Bluff.

The delegates chose Little Rock as the site of the 1961 convention. Other new officers elected today included:

Dr. Wright S. Hawkins of Fort Smith, first vice president; Dr. John W. Dodson of Hot Springs, second vice president; Dr. D. L. Owens of Harrison, third vice president; Dr. Sam G. Jamison of El Dorado, treasurer; and Dr. H. Elvin Shuffield of Little Rock, secretary.

Dr. C. Lewis Hyatt of Monticello was elected president of the House of Delegates.

Dr. Jamison was chosen as delegate to the American Medical Assn.'s next convention with Dr. C. C. Long of Ozarks as alternate.

Delegations Object to Guard Setup

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Local delegations from south Arkansas yesterday complained to Gov. Orval E. Faubus and state military officials about the proposed reorganization of the Arkansas National Guard.

Whether their protests would change any details of the reshuffling of units wasn't certain. Faubus met the delegations — from Stuttgart, De Witt, Dumas, Dermott, Pine Bluff, Monticello and McGehee — behind closed doors.

Rep. Knox Nelson of Jefferson County said Pine Bluff residents regarded some of the proposals as a waste of money and manpower.

Legislators Introduce Strange Bills

By ART SRB
Associated Press Staff Writer

If some legislators had their way:

Blind persons could get hunting licenses.

Nudism would be outlawed. Cigarette packages would bear skull and crossbones inscriptions.

Downtown Chicago would be a sunbathing area.

Bills pending for such laws were introduced in state legislatures year. Some of the odd or whimsical measures even managed to become law. A lousy water slider will find the sport even riskier if he performs on Iowa rivers and lakes.

Why? Legislators in the Hawkeye State decided some water sliders were flying too high and passed a law making it a misdemeanor to ride skis while under the influence.

Nudism came under scrutiny in Vermont and Missouri, the Show-Me State. But Missourians were having a tough time deciding which committee should handle the bill to ban nudism. The Appropriations Committee argued it deserved the measure because it deals with figures.

Some 40 sunbathers in Vermont's lone nudist colony can continue basking in the altogether, thanks to the defeat of an anti-nudist bill.

Wyoming considered, then defeated, a bill which would have permitted issuance of hunting licenses to blind persons. It would have required the actual shooting be done by another licensed hunter, with the game animal going to the blind person.

South Dakota's Senate thought all cigarette packs should bear a skull and crossbones stamp. The House considered the bill — then killed it. A similar measure died in the Utah Legislature.

Exasperated with attempts by Chicagoans to prevent industry from building on Indiana's Lake Michigan sand dunes, a Hoosier legislator proposed that Chicago's business district be converted into a sand dune.

The bill, which even provided for empty beer cans to give the proposed Chicago beach the proper picnic look, died in committee, almost before Chicagoans got wind of the matter.

Maine tried to straighten out the somewhat fuzzy provisions of its liquor law forbidding cocktail lounge patrons to stand and tavern customers to sit. Bills were drawn up to allow lounge patrons to arise and those in taverns to be seated.

Legislation has not been made public. Phases regarding specific units have become known to local interests.

Page said that under the plan artillery units would be concentrated in one area, infantry groups in one and engineer units in another. The guard now has 104 units in 75 towns and the reorganization will cut this to 87 in 75 towns.

Page stressed that the reduction was ordered by the National Guard Bureau at Washington. The plan finally submitted by the Arkansas guard will be subject to approval of the bureau.

Fire Guts Two N.L.R. Businesses

NORTH LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Fire destroyed two business buildings in a shopping center here today.

Three other business places were damaged by smoke.

Owners of the businesses affected by the blaze of unknown origin estimated the loss would total at least $50,000.

Destroyed were the Jax Shoe Store and a laundromat. Minor smoke damage was caused to a diner, a cleaning firm and a restaurant.

A. S. Andrews, owner of the building housing the shoe store and laundromat, put his loss at $30,000 and said it would be partly covered by insurance. The laundromat owner said his business was ruined and figured the loss at more than $10,000.

Pfrench said apparently the blaze started in the rear of the laundromat. There were no injuries.

Bomb Expert Takes No Chances

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—Chief Warrant Officer J. C. Sweet took no chances with an aircraft photo flash bomb which had been found on Chaudelour Island in the Gulf of Mexico.

Sweet, an explosive ordnance disposal officer sent from the Navy Armament Depot at Camden, Ark., destroyed the four-foot bomb by exploding it yesterday. He used a plastic explosive to detonate the bomb.

Sweet decided to destroy the 10-pound bomb where it was found because silt water had corroded the fuse.

Four fishermen had found the bomb nose-down in the sand last Sunday. There was no indication how it got on the island, located about 25 miles south of Biloxi, Miss.

Hope Star Will Launch a New Weekly Column Telling All About Boating

By NEA Service

NEW YORK (NEA) — A new weekly column on recreational boating, which has become the nation's top family sport, is being launched by the Hope Star on April 18.

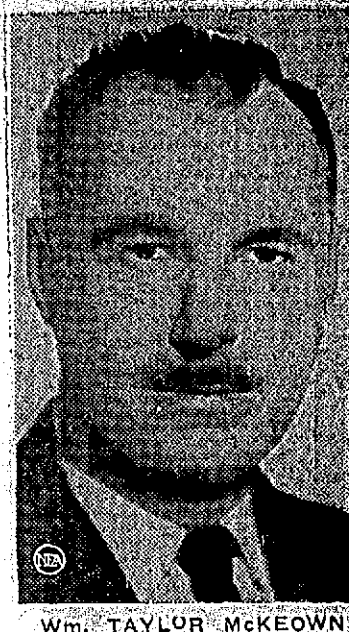

Chresten "America Afloat" the column will highlight news about every phase of boating for every level of the sailorman who skins the lota pond in a dinghy to the family that dreams of a vacation cruise on America's inland or coastal waterways.

"America Afloat" is being written by NEA Service, world's greatest newspaper feature service, by Wm. Haylor McKeown, editor of Popular Boating, world's largest sailing magazine.

A noted authority in the boating world, McKeown has sailed and reported on the sport from many parts of the world. After early years of sailing both on the high lakes of the Colorado Rockies and Long Island Sound, he became a World War II combat fighter pilot, then returned to boating in the British Isles and Europe.

Before starting Popular Boating, McKeown wrote for many other publications in that field and was editor of Outdoor Boating Guide, and now is an officer of many major boating organizations.

Like most of the other 37 million Americans interested in recreational boating, however, McKeown still spends as much time as possible on the water. This spring, for instance, he'll be going to sea in the Miami to Nassau power race, which boatmen call the world's roughest.

Wm. TAYLOR MCKEOWN

for an hour.

"Tackling is our biggest problem on defense," Broyles said. "We are poor tacklers. We've just got to keep working to bring that phase of our game up to par."

Broyles gave the Hogs an afternoon off today after scheduling the first scrimmage of the spring season for tomorrow afternoon.

The Razorbacks worked yesterday with Jarrell Williams running in the right halfback spot vacated by the forced resignation of Jim Mooley.

Mooley, only Porter named to last year's All Southwest Conference team, quit the squad Wednesday on the advice of a physician. He had been suffering from headaches and dizzy spells.

"I don't want to gamble with my life for just one more year of football," Mooley said.

Williams, a hard runner, came to the Porkers from Fort Smith High School as a halfback. Last year, the Hogs had more halfbacks than they could use, he was switched to fullback.

Messages 'Regret' Dulles' Resignation

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — The White House today reported receipt of a flood of messages of regret over the resignation of John Foster Dulles as secretary of state.

Press secretary James C. Hagerty said that such messages have been pouring in here and in Washington.

"It's as heavy a volume as we've ever had," Hagerty said.

The Los Angeles Dodgers have been a long time waiting on Don Demeter, a scrappy kid who didn't really want in the first place. Now it looks as if their patience has paid off.

Still a rather frail-looking guy, although the Dodgers have fastened him up with liver oil and vitamins, Demeter, 23, has been a robust fill-in for the ailing Duke Snider in center field. With Duke nursing a knee, Demeter has figured in all three Los Angeles victories.

He did it again Thursday night, soaking a two-run homer, a single and a fifth-inning double that brought home the winning run in a 7-6 decision over the St. Louis Cardinals at Los Angeles.

"We signed him," Dodger veep Prescott Thompson admits, "because we wanted to get other kids. They were all tied up at an Oklahoma City high school back in 1952 and when we signed the two we wanted, (I don't know exactly where they are now), they said couldn't we sign their buddy too."

"So the scout gave him $600 or something like that, and that's how we got Demeter."

The Dodgers also have a share of fourth place at the moment in the National League, 1½ games behind Milwaukee's still undefeated first-place Braves, who beat Philadelphia 7-3. The Chicago Cubs who share fourth, whipped San Francisco 11-3. Cincinnati and Pittsburgh were idle.

In the American, Baltimore split the New York Yankees 7-4. Kansas City whipped the Chicago White Sox 6-0 and Washington beat Boston 7-5.

The Dodgers counted six runs on three homers in another game of screen-o at the Coliseum. Rookie Ron Fairley sliced a leadoff shot over the left-field "barrier" off loser, Emilio Bogio (0-2), who also gave up Demeter's homer for a three-run first inning. Rookie Jim Baxes hit a three-run homer off Howie Nunn, second of six.

Card pitcher, St. Louis used 25 players in NL record and matching the major league mark for a nine-inning game. The Cards also used eight pinch hitters and that tied an NL record.

Johnny Klippstein, third Dodger pitcher, was the winner with Clem Labine's help in a two-run ninth.

Low Burdette gained his second victory, and complete game, with a six-hitter for the Braves, who won with four runs in the eighth off losing reliever Jack Meyer (0-1).

Five Giant errors for a total of 17 in six games gave the Cubs six unearned runs, five coming as they scored seven in the ninth. Dale Long's two-run homer was the clincher in the fifth off loser Sam Jones (1-1). Glen Robbie (1-0) won it with relief help.

Garver Hurls Athletics Over the White Sox

By ED WILKS

Associated Press Sports Writer

At 33, Ned Garver is perhaps the American League's No. 1 junkman, dealing in soft curves and brass. He makes the most of his nothing against the Chicago White Sox.

The stubby right-hander, 110-133 record in 11 seasons of pitching for second division clubs, The White Sox have been tagged for 24 of those victories, the most Garver has taken from any club.

He got the latest Thursday, a five hit shutout that included, but one walk, as the Kansas City Athletics handed the White Sox a second straight defeat 6-0.

The New York Yankees finally fell, losing 7-4 to Baltimore, which got its first victory. Washington whipped Boston 7-5. Cleveland and Detroit were idle.

In the National League, Milwaukee remained unbeaten with a 7-3 victory over Philadelphia, the Chicago Cubs won 11-3 at San Francisco and Los Angeles defeated St. Louis 7-6 in the lone night game.

Garver gave up nothing but singles and breezed home for the first complete game by the Athletics this season. He was helped along by two-run homers from Frank House and Bob Cerv off Early Wynn (1-1).

The Orioles broke through against the Yankees with a four-run eighth inning capped by Billy Gardner's bases-loaded triple. Starter Art Ditmar was the loser, but it was Ryno Duren, the champs' fire-balling relief ace, who gave up a tying single by Gene Woodling ahead of Gardner's clincher. Billy Dell won it.

Right-hander, Pete Ramos beat the Red Sox although giving up 10 hits and weathering a three-run ninth. Rookie Bob Allison's first major league homer, a three-run swat, and Norm Zauchert's second of the year gave the Nats a four-run fourth inning against loser Herb Moford. It was Renio Bertoia's two-run single in the eighth that put it away, however.

U. S. to Continue Flights Over Berlin

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has told Britain it intends to continue high-altitude flights to Berlin when necessary to supply U.S. forces.

This was reported today at the State Department. It indicated the U.S. government has shelved British expressions of concern about continuing the flights.

The Soviet Union has insisted that U.S. planes should not fly above 10,000 feet in the corridors from West Germany to West Berlin. The United States has refused to recognize such a ceiling.

The British are worried over the possibility of a shooting incident. Soviet fighters have buzzed or shadowed high flying American planes in the corridors.

generally exposed to these vehicles. Animals with defective sight or hearing should never be permitted near traffic unattended and unleashed.

Drivers should be on the lookout for unattended dogs, especially in suburban or rural areas or in children's play areas. Many times children and dogs go together and a driver might reasonably expect to have a child dart out from behind a parked car or other obstruction if a dog is observed nearby.

DOGS

DOG TRAFFIC SAFETY

By FARLEY MANNING

National Dog Welfare Guild. Warm weather means many things — beach trips, outdoor sports, vacations and more cars on the nation's already crowded highways.

It also means a sharp increase in the number of accidents and in accident victims, both human and animal, due to increased use of the automobile. The National Dog Welfare Guild points out in opening its annual summer safety campaign.

Blame for the yearly tragedies involving dogs struck down on the highways cannot be placed entirely on drivers, the Guild maintains. Owners who do not control their dogs are risking the lives both of their pets and of drivers and passengers who might be injured when trying to avoid hitting a stray dog.

As a safety measure, dog owners should control the movements of their unattended pets by chain or fence and keep a close restraint on their animals when near any highway. Children who take dogs with them away from the immediate vicinity of the home should be instructed to do likewise.

Dogs who show a tendency to run after moving vehicles should be properly trained before being in the street.

Dulles Praised for Work by Europeans

Editor's Note: The effects of the visit of John Foster Dulles to Europe, an international event, will be discussed and argued for a long time. This is the first of a two-part series, assessing those effects in the light of Dulles' resignation Wednesday. It is the work of John M. Highower, whose coverage of foreign affairs for AP spans Dulles' official career.

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Foster Dulles has been both vilified and denigrated and extravagantly praised for his work in foreign affairs.

Few men in his position have been more controversial, and his detractors will be slow to admit President Eisenhower's estimate that he was the country's greatest secretary of state.

But there can be no doubt that in the critical weeks ahead he will be sorely missed.

His successor faces a tough task in picking up the direction of foreign policy where Dulles, stricken by cancer, has put it down. In the six years he was in office, the major diplomatic achievements, such as the Korean armistice, the status of only one of the great American governments, but also as a leader of the free world in its struggle against expansive Chinese communism.

He demonstrated a rugged capacity for work—days, nights and weekends—which probably few other men can equal. He knew other leaders of the free world from close personal contacts and he traveled, with apparent relish, 500,000 miles on trips which took him to 40 countries.

This would be true even for a man in the position of Undersecretary of State Christian Herter, who has worked with Dulles for two years.

On April 20, he must meet in Paris with the foreign ministers of Britain, France and West Germany to make final preparations for negotiations with the Soviets on delicate and dangerous questions of the future of Berlin and Germany. On May 11, with his British and French colleagues, he must sit opposite Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko in a big four conference that is likely to stretch into a grueling month of frustrating argument.

Doctor Gives Go Ahead to Mr. Herter

WASHINGTON (AP)—Christian A. Herter's arthritis may be a factor in whether he succeeds John Foster Dulles as secretary of state.

President Eisenhower, it is believed, would consider whether the affliction would interfere with Herter's being an active foreign policy chief. Herter is now acting secretary of state.

Herter's personal physician, Dr. Theodore B. Bayles, provided this own answer to this question Wednesday night. The 44-year-old New Englander, he said, is "perfectly capable" of carrying the full burden of secretary of state.

Herter suffers from arthritis of the hips. It causes him to bend his 6-foot-5 frame forward when he walks.

It's a disease he has put up with for the past 10 to 15 years, Dr. Bayles said. The condition was "progressed, very little" in the past eight years.

"He doesn't have a crippling kind of arthritis," the doctor reported in an interview. "Mr. Herter suffers some discomfort when he walks or stands for any length of time."

"But he has absolutely no discomfort when sitting at a conference table, for example, or resting in bed at night."

Ever since he became undersecretary of state two years ago, Herter has rolled on light-weight metal arm crutches to move about. They relieve the pressure on his hip joints.

News Briefs

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP)—Corrine Deutschbauer, the pretty 20-year-old girl who picketed the Pickle Workers, is back on the job.

Corrine picketed the office of Local 325 of the Canning and Pickle Workers Monday. She claimed her 33-hour work week was being cut.

The Pickle Workers fired Corrine, but rehired her Wednesday.

MIAMI, Okla. (AP)—Bert L. Thompson, 64-year-old Commerce resident, was seriously injured when he lost control of his three-wheel motor scooter and overturned near here.

VEVEY, Switzerland (AP)—Charlie Chappin celebrated his 70th birthday today at his home overlooking Lake Geneva.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—The State of Arizona, flouting all varieties of morning glories to be pious weeds, is going to prohibit sale of any morning glory seed.

The Farm Bureau and the Arizona Cactus Growers Assn. contend the flower is almost impossible to exterminate once it gets started in a field.

Bible Comment

ON LOVING ONE'S NEIGHBOR
By WILLIAM E. GIBBY, D.D.
The Apostle John suggested that it is not easy to fulfill the two great Commandments, to love God and to love one's neighbor, when he asked (1 John 4:20) "If a man love his brother, whom he hath seen, how can he love God whom he hath not seen?"

"To love God with all the heart, soul, mind and strength is obviously not easy. It demands the full commitment and consecration of one's whole life. The more truly one believes in God as a Being of love, the Father of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, the higher is the soul's goal of attainment. Strongly emphasized is the plea of the sainted Apostle John: 'Beloved, if God so loved us, we ought also to love one another' (1 John 4:11)."

If the Apostle seems to imply that to love one's neighbor who is near at hand and is easier than to love the unseen God, I think his own emphasis upon what it means to love God might actually imply a possible reversal.

The man who has truly learned to love God is spiritually equipped to love his neighbor as no other man can be.

For the fact is: loving one's neighbor is not always an easy matter. It often calls for spiritual discipline, wisdom, and forbearance that only a man deeply consecrated to the Christian ideal and way of life is likely to possess. To love mankind in the abstract is a very different matter from love for the man next door, or on the next farm.

The New Testament is profound in its insistence upon right attitudes and motives, and Jesus put His supreme emphasis upon the "Two Commandments of the Jewish Law. There is no conflict between Old and New Testaments regarding the true neighbor. But the Old Testament is a great textbook concerning good human relationships, and the business of people getting on with one another. Think of some of its great teachings: "A soft answer turneth away wrath; but grievous words stir up anger"; "He that is slow to anger is better than the mighty"; "Let not the sun go down on your wrath," and a multitude of similar good counsels.

In my own long life, in many communities, I have been exceedingly fortunate in having good neighbors. In the only instance in which I learned a lesson that I pass on for what it is worth, for a long time a next-door neighbor had driven into town with me. All he had had to do was step in my car without any obligation.

Yet one day when my wife had a young boy helping her in the garden, the boy happened to step over his line. He stormed out of his house and raised a great fuss. When I went out he was apparently embarrassed, but when he began to sputter about it being a strange thing, if a man couldn't control his own property, I said, "I won't talk to you. I don't feel it quite fitting to continue his free rides to town, and that's where I made my mistake."

The man moved away, but much later when his mother died he sent for me, to my great surprise, to conduct his mother's funeral.

It was then I realized how much better it would have been, if instead of simply avoiding him I had taken an aggressive attitude of friendship and urged him to continue riding with me. It would have been the right answer to a temporary churlishness.
